Snapshots of this Week's Learning and Activities

The first week back has certainly been an exciting one! On the first day back, there was a wonderful blanket of snow in the outdoor area. The children eagerly put on their coats and wellies and got straight outside. It was wonderful to see the children playing collaboratively, building snowmen, mark making in the snow and having a snowball fight (mainly towards the staff). This week we have been reading 'Meet the Planets'. I am amazed at how well the children have been able to remember the names of the planets and how they have shown an interest in learning more about space. Throughout the week, the children have been weighing moon rocks, building rockets and making aliens with playdough.
